THEOLOGICAL DOCTORAL PROGRAM IN RUSSIAN LANGUAGE

Is this program needed for the Russian speakers who received a master’s degree in Russian here in the U.S.? What are the prospects for the doctoral program? Is it realistic to attain it? What are the requirements for obtaining this level of education? Will it be exclusively in Russian or is some knowledge of English still needed? The head of the Association’s Education Ministry and the leader of the Blagovest Institute answers these and other similar questions in this article \(in Russian only\).

TRANSFER OF MINISTRY

For over ten years, Olga Drovorub was serving in the Association as the head of the “Moms in Prayer” ministry. Unfortunately, because of some health issues, she is no longer able to continue serving in this capacity. Thankfully, Oksana Bugriyev was able to willingly take up this role. She has already been serving on the department’s committee for a few years now. Her candidacy will still need to be confirmed at the next Association convention, but for now, we are grateful to Olga for her many years of sacrificial service and wish for God to bless her, as well as Oksana, who will be continuing to serve in this ministry. PEACE AT THE TIME OF STORM – WOMEN’S CONFERENCE AT THE SECOND SLAVIC BAPTIST CHURCH

On April 12-13, over two hundred women from Sacramento and other cities and states came to the Second Slavic Baptist Church to listen to guest speakers from WA: Maria Gusenkova, Larisa Gidenko, and Arina Glazko. The theme of the conference turned out to be very relevant and has sparked the interest of many. Daily turmoil that is not noticeable to those around us is pressing on Christian women. Although theologically, they understand that all problems are resolved through Jesus Christ, how are they to practically find peace in Him, and trust Him in resolving these problems? Not everyone knows how to understand and to approach these issues. This was the theme of the conference. More details... \(in Russian only\).
